Welcome back to the start of a new term. I hope that everyone had a safe and enjoyable break. We are now ‘geared’ up for the final term of the year and a great way to start the term off is to announce that the school was awarded “Best School Art Exhibit” at this year’s Geelong Show. The exhibit is made up of art work from across the school. Congratulations to everyone and especially to Mrs Hunter for her work at setting up the display of the exceptional work of our students. Mrs Hunter was also assisted on the day by Jenny Hudson, so thank you very much.

Just as a reminder next Wednesday (19th October) there is no school on that day.

Pre Summer works
People will have noticed the tree missing from the front of the school. This was necessary to remove as the Education Department prepares schools for the upcoming bushfire season. Other works to be carried out are the placing of gutter guards around the main building, replacement of fly wire screens with wire mesh screens, and the upgrading of some glass panels. These works are necessary to ensure the safety of all people who work at Wallington Primary School, in the event of a bushfire.

As I mentioned at the start of the year, Wallington has been declared a “CodeRed” school. This means that on days of ‘catastrophic weather’ the school will be closed for the day. No staff or students are expected to attend on such days. Families will be given as much notice as possible when these days are declared. The last ‘catastrophic day’ was on Black Saturday.

Tips when hearing your child read
Your child has brought home their reader and it’s your job to hear them read it. Here’s some tips from an experienced teacher to make it easier for you and a positive learning experience for your child.

1. Independence - Let your child have as much control as possible. They should hold the book, turn the pages and point to the words (if necessary). It’s best to sit side by side so you can look at the book together.

2. Engage the mind - Ask your child if they’ve read the book before. If so, ask what type of book is it? Is it funny, sad …? Ask a couple of quick questions to activate prior knowledge. If not, then look at the cover and then through the pictures and ask, “What do you think the book’s about?” or “What do you think is going to happen?”

3. Talk about it first - While your child is looking though, see if you can spot some difficult words that may trip them up and make reading more difficult. For example, if the text reads “gigantic dinosaur” and there’s a picture of a large dinosaur you could say, “That dinosaur looks gigantic.” Then when your child comes to that word it will be easier for them to read.

4. Be fully present - Your child will pick up on your feelings. Choose a time when you can give them your full attention and if you are frustrated with your child’s reading progress stay calm, express it later to an adult (your child’s teacher).

5. Make it fun - Keep it light and full of encouragement. Tell your child a joke or read something funny. Children love nonsense rhymes and funny stories. If there’s people talking in the story, you could get your child to read in different voices for each character, or you could read one. The time you take and the atmosphere you set, will have a lasting impact on your child’s learning and to your relationship so enjoy listening to your child read.

HELP NEEDED
If you have some spare time we need to get on top of the grass mowing. I am looking for anyone who could help in this regard. If you can please see me and I can arrange for a key to the garden shed

Strawberry Fair Meeting
At the last Strawberry Fair meeting we covered a range of issues such as the location of stalls. We are currently waiting for confirmation of our booking for Code One (police rock band) and are looking at a range of rides and activities that will cater for a wider range of age groups.

We are also looking for co coordinators for the food stalls and areas
BBQ Devonshire Tea Pancakes
Pavs Nachos Show bags
Drinks Fairy Floss Gourmet Food Gate

The next meeting of the Fair will be on Wednesday 2nd November at 7:00pm at the school. These meetings are open to anyone. The more input we have from parents the better the fair will be.
